Simple students see several silly saps seldom study; so some say, seriously, "Stop studying soon, since semester still seems simply STARTED!"

WOULD GOLDEN PANTHER BE IDEAL MASCOT FOR COLLEGE?

GOLDEN PANTHERS

Few people realize the great change which has come over the San Francisco State Teachers' College. Thirty-one years ago, our Alma Mater was founded here in San Francisco. Since then, our college has grown to such an extent as to have an enrollment of over eleven hundred students. Among the various advancements made during the latter years, is the increasing number of men students enrolled in the college, and from them many new activities have sprung.

We now compete in sports. Football, track, swimming, tennis, and many other athletic activities have been introduced in our institution. Through these sports a new feeling of loyalty in backing our college in its competition with others has arisen. We challenge opponents on the field of sports; yet when we meet them, they have something that we lack. They possess a mascot which they love and cherish. We have our colors, but we have no representative. Yale has its bulldog; Wisconsin has its badger; California has its bear; and Stanford has its Indian. It is time for S. T. C. to adopt a symbolic animal.

Let us choose one that is worthy of our great institution. This symbol is to represent our college at home and abroad. Our yells and our songs will be built around it.

Our mascot should represent strength, courage, and the power of determination to see us to noble victory or to glorious defeat. What mascot would carry all three factors? THE PANTHER! This animal, with his strength and courage, has survived the advancement of man and has failed to disappear from our country even though civilization penetrates his haunts.

Would not the strength and the courage of a sleek, golden panther staring at them from a purple background put courage, fight, and determination into the members of the student body of S. F. S. T. C. to obtain honor and glory for him and for their college that he represented?

COLLEGE PROFESSOR BELIEVES OLD TIME METHODS OBSOLETE

In a statement printed by the Examiner a few weeks ago, Professo E. A. Rogers, of the Montezuma School, expressed his views regarding the value of mathematics to the average school child of today, he said: "All but elementary mathematics are useless unless the child is to become an engineer. The old theory that studying algebra and geometry broadened and strengthened the unwilling pupil's mind has been proven fallacious. Neither does memorizing Latin, or studying the grammar of foreign languages make the child a better thinker."

Mr. Boulware Agrees

Mr. Alexander Boulware, associate professor of mathematics at this college, agrees with Professor Rogers, but goes on to say: "In former days mathematics was made difficult by problems containing involved statements, and involved numbers. The modern method of teaching mathematics and also foreign languages, is by the natural method, that is, through the student's natural means for learning."

"About twenty years ago at this college the principle of mental discipline was given up in favor of education for its own sake. Text books have reflected this idea for a number of years especially the text books on mathematics."

Been Used Here

The statements of Mr. Boulware and Professor Rogers agree in substance. However, Mr. Boulware brings out the fact that what Professor Rogers claims to be the modern trend in educational methods, has really been followed by this college for at least twenty years.

Important To Freshmen

All freshmen working toward any Teaching Credential must present for the Penmanship Test, the date of which has been changed from February 7 to February 14.

Watch the official Bulletin Board for further notices.

English Department To Revise Courses For Future Work

Hoping to make the English offerings richer and more varied than they have been hitherto, the English department, under the supervision of Dr. E. T. Arnesen, plans to have a thorough reorganization of the courses taught in that department.

"Although it is rather premature to state the changes in the courses to be given," announced Dr. Arnesen, " I may say that the English department has been very thoughtful of the lower classmen, especially the sophomores, in giving them the right start in literary discipline. A course in the Introduction to Literature, aiming to acquaint the student with the 'deeper mysteries,' is among those to be announced next term. There will also be new courses in the major figures of English literature as well as certain courses stressing the cultural background of a period.

"However, for the present, we of the department," concluded Dr. Arnesen, "must preserve the utmost secrecy for fear of international entanglements, should our plans become known."

High Seniors Plan First Social Event

The first meeting of the high senior class for the spring term of 1931 was held Tuesday, January 20, at twelve-thirty in Room 118.

At this time the high seniors planned a dinner and theatre party to be held Friday February 13th. As yet the place for the dinner has not been decided upon, but it has been decided to hold the theatre party at the Columbia Theatre. Members of the class are hoping that the play will be a mystery one because of the date that they have chosen.

Allen Wyatt has been appointed as social chairman of the class. The officers for this term are: Myrtle Saxe, president; Lena Watt, vice-president; and Barbara Blaess, secretary-treasurer.

PEP ASSEMBLY IN GYM, FEBRUARY 4 WILL BE BIG EVENT

To further student participation and whole-hearted interest in S. T. C. athletics is the objective of a pep assembly, Wednesday, February 4, at ten o'clock in the college gymnasium.

All regularly scheduled class meetings are to be dispensed with so that the entire student body will be free to attend.

Allen Wyatt, general manager of athletics, who is in charge of the assembly, names the assembly speakers as Dr. Alexander C. Roberts, president of the college; Coach Dave Cox, dean of men; and a surprise speaker, whose identity can only be determined by attending the assembly.

An elucidation of future intercollegiate athletic plans will reveal a tremendous athletic program, which is already under way.

Among the members of the Athletics Managerial Staff, which will be seated on the stage are: Bill Connolly and Sidney Traeger, who are assisting with the arrangements for the assembly.

Opportunity will be given all students attending the assembly to sing the songs and yell the yells of S. T. C.

Stagecraft Class Has Colorful Time

To the amusement of all concerned, various members of Miss Casebolt's Stagecraft class have allowed themselves to be transformed into juvenile characters. Several interesting transformations took place, for instance, Mr. Melecio Vera took the form of a rosy-cheeked cherub, while Miss Elena Foppiano became a beautiful, olive-complexioned actress, and Miss Margaret Meng, ran around the college for the rest of the day with an excessively colorful blush upon her cheeks.

The class, under the direction of Miss Casebolt, has been studying the art of make-up. So far the students show they know how to use it!

FACULTY RULING ALLOWS GRADE IMPROVEMENT

Women As Smokers Cause Faculty To Elucidate

OPINIONS GIVEN

In view of the recent controversy on the subject of women's smoking the views of the following professors are quite apropos.

Dr. Ethyl Speaks

"People who make a fuss over women smoking cigarettes display an absence of brains. It is no more a question of morality than eating pie. The objection to women smoking is a provincialism; that attitude does not belong in a city the size of San Francisco."

In a recent survey of the ill effects of cigarette smoking, the University of Michigan gives it a clean bill of health. The Lancet, a magazine published in England, arrived at the same decision after conducting a similar investigation," Dr. Garland Ethel concluded.

Others State Opinions

"Let them smoke if they want to; I don't, but many of my women friends do."—Mr. Alexander Boulware.

"I have no opinon to express respecting the behavior of individuals unless they affect me directly; for instance, if a girl should smoke in class, I would be very sure to object forcibly."—Mr. James Sharp.

"I am indifferent as to whether women should smoke or should not smoke; however, I do think that the odor of stale smoke detracts from a girl's charm. Smoking is going through the same stages of criticism that bobbed hair did, especially from rural superintendents who employ the majority of our girls. Perhaps a smoking room would be better than smoking on the sly, and might eliminate the smoking that is carried on in the parked cars outside the college."—Miss Hilda Holmes.

"Women's smoking is not a moral issue in my opinion. I believe that both men and women would be better off financially and perhaps from health and cleanliness standpoints if they did not smoke. Why form a habit which enslaves one, when the habit must be consciously acquired?"—Mrs. Evangeline Spozio.

Miss Reid's Opinion

"I'm old-maidish and I don't believe in smoking. I have built up certain ideals, and I see no sense in changing from a good to a bad habit. I do not, however, base my respect for a woman student on whether or not she smokes." —Leah Reid.

Strange to say, a great many instructors refused to give their opinion on the subject of women's smoking. What can this mean?

NOTICE!

According to pages 26 and 27 of the College Bulletin, all students with grades of "Incomplete" are allowed six weeks in which they may make up their deficiencies; if at the end of that time they have not done so, a failure will be recorded. In order that all who have been given "Incompletes" may know so, the Registrar's Office has sent out warning notes, urging students either to make up their work, or, if that is impossible at present, to apply for extension of time.

PERIODS CHOSEN

Sixth, Twelfth Weeks Schedule For Plans In Change

DEAN DU FOUR,
Chairman of Committee

In order that students will have the opportunity to overcome deficient grades before the end of the semester, a change in faculty policy for the interests of the student has been made, it was announced by Dean DuFour last week.

The new schedule which will take effect this semester will consist of two mid-term periods in place of the one used formerly. These two mid-terms are to come at the close of the sixth and twenfth weeks, at which time average grades falling below C will be sent to the Recorder by the faculty members, and notices will be sent on to students by the close of the following week. The grades recorded will be in two categories:

D, indicating a passing but non-grade-point bearing average; and, E, indicating an average below the passing standard.

This important change in policy has been made in order that students whose average class work is not up to standard will be notified early enough in the term so that there will be opportunity to overcome the deficiency. Here-to-fore, mid-term grades have not reached the student until the tenth or eleventh week of the semester, and by the time instructors have been consulted, there remained only a few short weeks in which time it was impossible to improve records.

After due consideration, the faculty has arranged for the two mid-term periods for the benefit of the students who will henceforth be able to bring their work up to standard before the end of the semester.

One new instructor is definitely said to "expect lots of us." Why not? Higher standards will never make a poorer college. Higher standards could be obtained by more efficient study in the library. Of course it would mean less conversation; that's the point.

* * *

Dr. Stanley Rypins's leaving some two weeks ago is a reminder that those students who did not "take" his Introductory Social Science course missed something. He delighted in telling us that all mothers are liars, that drink and its related curses, idleness and laziness, were of benefit to man, and that love is blind; he proved it.

A little bird told me: The prexy's secretary was contemplating, one cold day, the purchasing of woolen apparel. It seems that she had seen a baby with one of those one-piece, woolen cover-alls and decided that a larger one would be just the thing for the office (in strict est confidence).

Franciscan Dames Install Officers

At the first meeting of the Franciscan Dames for the spring semester, held Thursday, January 15, 1931, the new officers were installed. Those who took office were Mrs. Fern Carlton, president; Mrs. Dorothy Hoffman, acting vice-president; and Mrs. Grace Graham, secretary - treasurer. Mrs. Edith Smiley was elected vice-president of the club last term, but because she is unable to attend college this term, Mrs. Hoffman was elected to take her place.

The members are starting this semester with plans for the annual dinner which was postponed from the end of last semester to the beginning of this term. At this dinner will be the present members of the Franciscan Dames club, speakers who addressed the club last semester, and those members of the faculty who are honorary members of the club. The Dames hold their regular meetings in the Activities Room, Thursday at the noon hour. They usually have some member of the faculty as a speaker at each meeting. The custom has been for the members to hold parties at their homes, and to invite the members of the club to attend. The first party for this term will be given by Mrs. Fern Carlton, president.

Einstein theories are now affecting the bakers to a certain extent. Mr. Einstein has a new theory: "The Social Electric Equation" which is to improve the making of the bun. Upon using this equation the baker is able to see the current in a bun.

MR. MUNDT APPEARS IN HEAVENLY DRAMA FOR HIS STUDENTS

Mr. Carlos Mundt is portraying, in an amusing style, the part of the Moon in the comedy, "Introduction to the Physical World." He assured his three o'clock class on January 20 that there would be no extra charge for the performance.

Mr. Mundt

This sudden personification of a body in the universe came about when Mr. Mundt endeavored to fix in the minds of his students the reason for the belief that the moon rotates, and using a stool as the earth and he himself being the moon he proceeded to demonstarte.

In Entertaining Mood

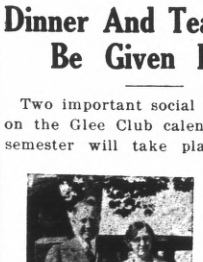
Mr. Mundt was in an entertaining mood, for in addition to this delightful bit of acting he described the surface of the moon as it was before recorded history began as being of the consistency of "icky" fudge. He objected to the careless manner in which the moon is portrayed in illustrations for very often he has noticed that the horns of the crescent moon are pointed downward or toward the sun, either case being impossible.

Clarifies By Sketch

To clarify the class's understanding of this fact, he drew on the blackboard a series of objects which he called flats, and from one of these smoke was rising for its inhabitants were able to have a furnace fire as they had not as yet been affected by unemployment. Above this scene he sketched the moon, showing its course across the sky and proving the above contention.

Dinner And Tea To Be Given By Club

Two important social events listed on the Glee Club calendar for this semester will take place the first two weeks in February. On Wednesday afternoon, February 4 at four o'clock, the old members of the Glee Club will give a formal tea in the Activities room in honor of the new members. A dinner will be given Wednesday evening, February 11.



Dr. and Mrs. Roberts, Guests of Honor

At the tea the guests of the afternoon besides the new members will be Dr. Alexander C. Roberts, Miss Ethel England, Miss Eileen McCall, Mrs. Mary McCauley, and Mr. William Knuth. Members of the Parent-Faculty Association have also been invited to the affair.

A Japanese motif will be carried out during the afternoon. Eureka Hatta, one of S. T. C.'s Japanese students and several of her friends will serve and entertain in their colorful native costumes. Louise Miclo is in charge of this affair.

Dr. and Mrs. Alexander C. Roberts will be the guests of honor at the dinner to be held February 11. The decorations and entertainment for the affair will be in keeping with Valentine's Day. Plans for the program have not been completed as yet but there will be novel dances and songs to fit the occasion. Lillian Tyrell, former president of the club, is the chairman for this dinner.

Biology Professor Warns Low Frosh!

What a shock the poor freshmen got, when Miss Leah Reid, assistant professor of biological science, arrived in P. S. 60, the other day.

After non-chalantly surveying the class from a pair of enormous, black rimmed, collapsible spectacles, she announced, "Now see here you freshmen, you better all behave, and sit up, and take notice. Why—I can see the freckles on the noses of the boys in the last row actually glaring at me like so many "pee-wee" suns. Um!" The poor class trembled rather violently.

Presently Miss Reid burst forth in profound laughter, "You see, I just bought these spectacles at a certain well-known department store. Yes, they only cost twenty-five cents."

But rest at ease, poor stricken freshmen! Miss Reid arrived in the normal tortoise-shells today.

THEATRE PICKS ITS FIRST TERM PLAY

On Monday, January 19, 1931, the College Theatre of S. T. C. held tryouts for entrance into that organization. The following were admitted: Florence Humphreys; Claude Orman; Frances Burge; Jack Evans; Marjorie Welisch; and Marjorie Callorian.

The first play of the semester will be presented on March 13, and will be "The Black Flamingo." This play is a thrilling mystery drama recently produced by the Carnegie Institute of Technology and the Pasadena Community Playrs. The selection of this play has aroused much enthusiasm among the members because of the unique setting it requires, and the eerie and sinister effects to be used througout the play. The cast has not been definitely selected as yet, but so far competition has been keen for the mysterious Cagliostro, who uses magical devices to confound his enemies, and the artistic and poetic Trigand who charms the beautiful heroine Diana.

Delta Phi Upsilon Makes Term Plans

Epsilon Chapter of Delta Phi Upsilon, honor fraternity, is planning many events for this year under the leadership of Laura David, president. The other officers who are assisting her are: Gertrude Olsson, vice-president; Helen Richardson, corresponding secretary; Wilma Orton, recording secretary; Marjorie Thomson, treasurer; Ruth Passow, courtesy secretary; and Estelle Barbieri, marshall.

An initiation will be held February 4, at the home of Marjorie Thomson. Ten days later, February 14, there will be a Valentine bridge tea at the Western Women's Club. The remaining scheduled events are a candy sale March 21, a trip to see "The Golden Goose, April 7, and an informal bridge party April 17.

A national convention of Delta Phi Upsilon is to be held in San Francisco August 7, 8, and 9, with Epsilon chapter acting as hostess.

An other event which has been planned is a theatre party to raise funds for the convention.

Freshmen To Give Novel Sport Dance

At a class meeting held last Friday, the freshmen decided to give a sport dance in the gym Friday evening, March 27. A re-election was held at the same time, and Frances Merrill was elected vice-president, and Barbara Larsen, secretary-treasurer.

Student body President Catherine O'Sullivan administered the oath of office to the four officers, and presented the executive pin to Bob Petersen, who then took charge of the meeting. The class officers will hold a meeting in the near future to finish the plans for the dance.

LIBRARY ASKS FOR STUDENT HELPERS

Miss Ruth Fleming, librarian, is formulating a new plan in connection with the distribution of the one-hour books in the library, which should greatly expedite the work at the loan desk. Miss Fleming's plan is to relieve Mrs. Lyon of handling the one-hour books. In order to do this she is asking for volunteers to keep in this place of the library work. If any persons are free at any time during the day, even though it is only for one hour, they should see Miss Fleming in her office.

The first volunteer has already signed up for one hour daily. The work consists of giving these one-hour books to students requesting them, and keeping a check on their return. It is not difficult work and will be enjoyable to those who lend their assistance. Furthermore, it will serve to good purpose by affording students experience in connection with library work.

PRESS CLUB HOLDS BUSINESS MEETING

Formulating plans of business and social activities for this term, the Press Club met for the first time this semester Friday, January 16, in room 119.

Mrs. T. H. Ellsworth, sponsor, greeted the club, and Webster Allen, former president, expressed his desire to be of assistance in any way possible.

It was decided that the students entering journalism should be welcomed by the club at a social affair to be held in their honor. The date was set for Wednesday, February 11, from 4-6 in the Activities Room. Doris Weinstein, social chairman, is to carry out a Valentine idea. Marilaton Stewart gave an encouraging report regarding the progress of the club's affiliation with Alpha Phi Gama. The suggestion was made of creating a Press Club insignia and pin. Webster Allen was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate the matter.

The next meeting will be held Friday, January 30, in room 119. Committee reports will be given, and a definite time for future meetings will be voted upon. Also the president, Rosalyn Hyde, will present at that time a highly important matter before the group.

University of California swimmers and water polo players will open their season February 10, meeting the Athens Club at the club pool, according to announcement.

A. Kael: "What do you suppose we'll have to read in Contemporary American Literature?"

E. Gaffney: "Shaw's Ibsen, I suppose."

REVIEWS, SPEAKERS FEATURE PROGRAMS IN COLLEGE CLUB

During the spring semester the International Club plans an intensive study of China. At the first meeting, January 29, Miss Martha Root, well known newspaper woman and lecturer on Persia, Albania, and Egypt, has consented to speak to the club on the subject of China. This meeting will be open to outsiders.

The program for the semester as it has been planned includes discussions of current topics fortnightly. Each time the club meets programs including book reviews and talks on the different phases of Chinese life will be given.

The book reviews mentioned in the above programs concern the eight books received from the Carnegie Institute.

It may be of interest to know that Mrs. Bertha H. Monroe, assistant professor of Social Science, was invited by the Committee on Cultural Relations of Latin America to attend the sixth annual Semminar to be held in Mexico, July 4-24. Heading this group are: Dr. Frank Tannenbaum; Professor Charles Hacket; Judge Florence Allan of the Supreme Court of Ohio; and Professor E. A. Ross of Wisconsin.

Scribes Plan Many Spring Activities

A visit to the editor of the Sunset Magazine today, will start the program scheduled by the Scribes Club for this semester, under Miss Lillian Talbert's sponsorship.

Miss Talbert Sponsor

Discussion of requirements and initiation for new members, a drive for new members by means of a student body contest were discussed at the first meeting of the semester held on Tuesday, January 20, in the Activities Room. New officers elected were Jane Knight, president; Marie Sime, vice-president; Laura Denman, secretary; and Ruth Raymond, treasurer.

Anyone interested in writing essays, short stories, or poems is cordially invited to join the club. One contribution a month is required of members. These contributions will be read before the club for criticism and help in order to assist the author in later writings. Any contributions which the club thinks are worthy will be sent publishers.

Wadsworth got his inspiration for his poem with the well known, "It isn't rain to me, it's raining daffodils," by apparently watching Miss Reid standing in the pouring rain, with an umbrella in one hand and a scissors in the other, clipping bushes on the campus. Only it was not raining daffodils.

Sphinx Refuse Pins

At a meeting of the Sphinx Club recently the members were discussing the advisability of having a club pin. Dr. Garland Ethel, the guest of honor, very forcefully expressed his disapproval saying that the United States is a pin - wearing nation; that he has seen too many young men and women crippled, their shoulders sagging from the weight of pins; and that a person who of necessity wore a pin for identification was lacking in individuality. The Sphinx Club is not having pins!

Freshmen Reception Given By Siena Club

At eight o'clock Monday evening, January 26, Siena Club held its first social event of the semester, a freshman reception at the clubhouse on Buchanan Street.

Lena Pacini, chairman of the affair, had prepared an entertaining program. The president of Siena Club, Margaret Lemon, welcomed the freshmen to Siena and invited all those who were eligible to join the club on February 2. Miss Nell Sullivan, sponsor of the club, sang two selections. Lena Pacini and Elvira Enos, accompanied by Catherine O'Sullivan, sang a number of popular songs. Amy Taubman and Sadie Mattilla played some numbers on the violin. After the program, refreshments were served in the tea room. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Gold Dust Twins Rivaled At S.T.C.

With the entrance of Arthur Miles from Modesto Junior College, the students and faculty of S. T. C. are liable to find themselves making a few mistakes in identity; since Arthur looks so much like his twin brother, Walter Miles, a present member of the Debating Society of S. T. C.

Arthur is forty-five minutes younger than Walter, but that doesn't help the situation any. This is just a warning to save people the embarrassment already experienced by certain students who have taken one to be the other. In high school the twins would recite for one another, much to the exasperation of the teachers who despaired of telling them apart.

COLLEGIANS MEET PREP CHAMPS

- THE - INSIDE STORY

The State Varsity basketball team suffered a severe setback when it was learned that Ted Goldman, star center, will be lost to the squad for the rest of the season. Ted sprained his wrist while playing football for San Mateo Junior College last season, and it was only until last week that an X-ray showed a broken bone. There still is a possible chance that he may be able to play later in the season, and we hope Ted will be back in uniform for the Marin game.

* * *

Ed Henry, that big, bad, boy with the blue eyes is considered as one of State's most prominent candidates for the track team. Ed ran the hundred and two-twenty yard dashes in his high school days and "oh, how he could travel." Although he has not trotted over the cinders the past season, Ed has been kept in fine condition playing basketball. So, let's go, Ed.

* * *

Tickets! Tickets for sale! Help the unemployed. Aw c'mon buy a ticket to the basketball game. Who is it? Yep, you guessed it. That voluble verbalist, "scratch in the back," Al Wyatt, our hard working Athletic Manager. This slashing, dashing, young man is very easily recognized. He's always trying, always crying, "tickets for sale." The song is ended. * *

While on the subject of eyes, have you seen the swell shiner Ed Traunberg has been sporting around the last week? No, Ed is no married, nor did he hit the lamp-post on his way home last Saturday night. It was acquired in a hot scrimmage during the first Sacred Heart game. Ed's eye came in contact with a Sacred Heare player's knee and . . . Well, anyway, Ed it was for "dear old State."

* * *

Tom Bragg, a candidate for State's newly organized track team. He will specialize in throwing the javelin. Tom will also be seen in action when the football season rolls around, having played end in '28 and '29 on Lowell elevens. At present Bragg is playing on S. T. C.'s basketball team.

COACH COX says

State's basketball teams are showing the effects of lack of student body support. The players' spirit is first class but they cannot be expected to win with such odds against them.

The small margins of victory obtained by our opponents in past games might just as well have been on the opposite side of the ledger. This is a good example of what students support could do. If the boys had someone to root for them, they probably would have won instead of lost in several games where the score was close.

How often do we see or hear of a man who points with pride to a winning team as the product of his alma mater, but denies it a year later when its record is not so good? It does not take a very good sport to support a winning aggregation. The superior spirit is brought out when a losing team is followed.

"Fighting Irish" Defeat Staters In Hard Fought Games

In a close game, which was marred by the loose playing of both teams, the State varsity was nosed out by Sacred Heart last Thursday by a 24-22 score. In the game, which was held in the college gym, the home team did not "hot-foot" around the way they have been in practice, and so suffered an upset that they did not anticipate. Many points were thrown away by the slow breaking of the varsity, which allowed the visitors to get set.

Close followers of the State team do not believe that the varsity is playing the brand of ball they are capable of, and hope to see them get "off the dime" in the future. Bell and Kaufman played nice floor games for the varsity, while Pfeiffer was outstanding for the visitors.

The '30s also lost their game with the Sacred Heart lightweights, one of the hardest fought games of the season. The final score was 21-15, after the State '30s had piled up an 11-7 lead at half time. The playing of the '30s was fast and clean in the first half, but it fell down remarkably during the final period. The line-ups for both teams were as follows:

Thirty-three Men Answer Track Call

Coach Cox's call for track men was answered by thirty-three candidates. The meeting held in room 118, Monday, consisted of a talk by Mr. Cox; and the assigning of certain groups to experienced men especially interested in designated events.

Athletes who are interested in weight events, shot put, javelin, and discus, should report to Berger Johnson; sprints to John Buchanan or Paul Gschwend, 100-yard dash to Stanley Smith, distance races to Bill Magner, and high hurdlers to Runer Stone. These men will help any aspirant to the best of their ability.

A training program was outlined by Coach Cox in which he expected every man to work-out at least four times a week. Most of the grind will be initiated on the Kezar track and a little later field events will be practiced on the college campus.

Basis For Awards Decided Upon By Managers and Cox

The Men's Athletic Managers met with Dean David Cox, Tuesday, January 20, to consider the basis for awarding blocks and numerals. Attention was given to fairness in recognizing athletic attainment. All managers agreed with Dean Cox when he said that S. T. C. should not have a system wherein a man might lose his chance for a block because he lacked a few seconds of actual play.

Awards Decided Upon

The official block of S. T. C. is to be a gold S, one and one half inches by five and one half inches and seven and one half inches high. The first year award will be the official block. The official block on a purple sweater with two gold stripes on the left arm will constitute the second year recognition. The third year award is to be a purple blanket adorned by a gold S.

A white sweater with a purple-bordered, gold block S will be the award for unique athletic achievment, for example, the breaking of a Far Western Conference record.

The style of managers' blocks will be announced following the next meeting.

Athletics Need Support

All attempts to organize men's athletics must have financial assistance. At the present time, the accounts show available funds to be scarce. Remedial measures are being studied. In the meantime it is felt that it is the obligation of every S. T. C. student to help swell the men's athletic coffers by attending every game.

Women's Swimming To Be Emphasized

The women of the S. T. C. seem to have the idea that basketball is the one and only sport that must be supported. With the intention of proving how untrue this really is, Miss Doris Holtz, Physical Education Instructor, is trying to put swimming on as strong a basis as basketball.

With the aid of Babe Gettemy, manager of swimming, Miss Holtz is going to promote keen competition between class teams. Swimming will be held at the Y. W. C. A. pool, Sutter and Mason Street, Tuesday afternoon from 4:45 to 5:15 o'clock.

An "I Can Swim Week" is being planned for the near future. There will be various meets held during the semester. One meet will take place between the Y. W. C. A. members and another meet will be held between classes. All women of the college are welcome.

SPORT FLASHES

The Sacred Heart College hoopsters this season are under the tutelage of a new coach: "Red" Begley, former Y. M. I. cage star. Begley advocates the system taught by Coach Frank Needles of the Y. M. I. This style of play is very much like the system employed by Frank's brother, Jimmy Needles of S. U.

Basketball coaches of the Big Ten, the conference which claims the keenest competition in the country, are up in arms against stalling on the basketball court. Concentration on defense and the practice of stalling with the ball by the team in the lead has caused a drop in spectator interest in the Middle West. In the opening game of the Big Ten conference, in which Wisconsin defeated Illinois, only six field goals were made during the entire game, the final score being 12 to 9.

Golf Class Needs Larger Membership

Before the services of a professional can be had for the golf class, there must be a membership of fifteen students. There are only nine enrolled now. If the needed number join the class, Mr. Robbins of the Harding Golf Course will teach the lessons, Tuesdays and Thursdays from four until six o'clock.

The fees for this course are three dollars for six lessons. The first five lessons will be given on the campus and the sixth lesson will be held at the Harding Golf Course. After these lessons have been completed, Mr. Robbins will supervise further lessons for two dollars a month at the Lincoln Golf Course.

Thirty-six hours on the green are required for credit in the course. Students who are interested should see Miss Hale or put a note in her box.

Freshmen Honored

Miss Velda Cundiff and Miss Florence Hale were the guests of honor at the W. A. A. Freshman Spread held Friday in the cafeteria.

A tumbling stunt by members of the Tumbling Club, followed by a waltz clog by Elsie and Margaret Schulte, opened the program. Other features on the program were a dance by Betty Stevenson, a piano solo by Thelma Reese, and class stunts.

The W. A. A. officers, managers of the different sports, and two other faculty members, Miss Eva Levy and Mrs. Katherine Bridge, were introduced to the group.

Purple and Gold Meets Lowell Hoopsters Friday

Lowell Team Given Slight Edge

The purple and gold casaba tossers will meet the teams of Lowell High School, Friday, January 30, at 4 P. M. in the S. T. C. gymnasium. The red and white cagers will be strong favorites to take the varsity game due to the defeat of the Staters by the Sacred Heart team. The Lowell lightweights are also favored to take their game on account of their record in their practice tilts, but the State lightweights are coming along fast and are due to start clicking very shortly. The lightweights were nosed out in their last start against Sacred Heart, but the game was one of the hardest fought battles played this season.

Both Lowell lightweight and unlimited teams annexed the city championships last year in the local high school league, and are figured to repeat their success this season. The Lowell teams are ably coached by Bennie Neff, who has gained a respectable reputation from his previous teams, and the Staters will have to go out and play plenty of basketball if they are to defeat the Lowell team.

Coach Cox is experimenting with different combinations on both squads in order that he may put his strongest five out on the floor. The men have been shifted around and every man will have to fight for his position on the starting lineup.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE SOON; MEN WANTED

Soon S. T. C. will have a football team of its own. First a basketball team made its appearance, now a swimming team is being organized, and next the game of the "pigskin" will be established on the campus.

Issue Call Soon

It won't be long now before Coach Dave Cox will issue the call to turn out for spring football practice. Before the practical side of the practice begins Coach Cox will give a number of chalk talks or "skull" drills. At these chalk talks the men who have signed up for the team will presumably be drilled in formation and plays, and drilled in the style of play that Coach Cox advocates. The former "Poly" mentor insists most of all on the fundamentals of the game being thoroughly learned.

Manager Bill Connolly of the football team, is busy trying to line up a satisfactory football schedule for the coming football season. To date the schedule is far from complete, but by the time the team is ready to take the field it is hoped that a complete schedule will have been drawn up. It will include a number of practice games.

Schedule Begun

So far the only games that have been definitely set are those with Marin Junior College, September 12 and with Stanford Frosh, September 26. A game has also been arranged with Santa Rosa, but no date has as yet been set for the game.

All men that are planning to turn out for spring football practice should send their names and a statemen of their experience to post number 226 this week.

College Spirit — Where ?

Did you ever hear of ham and eggs without the ham, pork and beans without the beans, or a college basketball team without the college? Of course not, neither has anyone else. But, it certainly looks as if this college were trying a new fad of a college basketball team without a college behind it.

You say that the college is here? Yes, that's the trouble. Our college right now consists of a number of buildings full of classrooms, situated between these streets in the city of San Francisco, and that's all. Our college spirit seems to be "dead wood." If it isn't, then where is there any spirit shown around here?

How can you members of S. T. C. expect to be represented in the world of college athletics if you don't even try to support your first intercollegiate team? How can a quintet of men get out on the gymnasium floor and win a basketball game when they can't even see "hide nor hair" of a rooting section? A man can't put everything he's got into building up the athletic name of this college if all he hears is about six voices "rah, rahing" when he rings a bucket. In such a case he has to take time out to wonder where the other 1,136 members of the S. T. C. student body are.

The team and the coach are now working on other athletic programs, swimming, track, and football. But, if the student body is not interested enough in athletics to support the basketball team, does it seem possible that plans for these activities can continue? Hardly.

What this college needs is a good dose of college spirit all around, and the place to begin is at the basketball games and the time to begin is right now.

Prexy Writes For Educational News

"Teacher Training Needs in California" is the title of an article by Dr. Alexander C. Roberts, president of the college, in the January issue of the Sierra Educational News. The Sierra Educational News is the official monthly publication of the California Teachers' Association. Dr. Roberts' article brings forward clearly six problems of California teacher training, of long standing and major importance, which are referred to as follows: in the first place, Dr. Roberts states that we need better faculties at each state teachers college, and we need better curricula there. To carry on efficient work we need adequate housing, and we must have a better understanding of our functions at the teachers colleges. To keep our standards high, we need better certification delimitations, and finally we need better study of our relationships.

Class Forms Team

A few members of the Class of December '32 have decided that S. T. C. needs a football team. Many members have volunteered their services for a bigger and better team. Mary Chaquette has offered to play hunchback, and Madeline Meginness has chosen to be drawback. The rest of the class is divided in two parts, one to play wayback and the other to play mudguard.

WISE QUACKS

First Gnat: "What is your life ambition?"

Second Gnat: "To get into the public eye."

Conscience began to hurt man about 300 B. C., says an archeologist. That may explain today why it shows such deterioration.

Pete: "My wife doesn't understand me, does yours?"

John: "I don't know, I've never heard her even mention your name."

"Ah, the pause that refreshed!" said the English professor when he saw the comma in the freshman theme.

Dr. Valentine advises all students having spare time to sleep half the time, and then pray for an understanding.

Many students have P. O. boxes in which to collect dust; except, of course, when cinch notices are placed in them—and that's a whole lot more dust.

Dr. Michell: "Does history repeat itself?"

M. Lemon: "Yes, if you flunk the course."

"Thank goodness I've got balloon tires." said the man as his auto ran over the cliff.

Byrd, Explorer And Flier, Relates His Many Experiences

Rear Admiral Richard Byrd was given a tremendous welcome when he came to lecture to San Franciscans, January 19, about the region surrounding the South Pole. As he crossed the stage to the microphone, the audience of some eight thousand people arose to applaud. A hesitant and grateful smile were all that were necessary to make known that the youngest admiral in the United States Navy, the transatlantic flier, and the only explorer of both polar regions was still modest. Interesting bits of the admiral's lecture, which showed a little of Virginian drawl, follow: "Loyalty is to be considered above efficiency . . . An Irishman of the expedition was asked what he missed most of civilization. 'Temptation,' was the reply . . . Flying an airplane in the Arctic was deemed suicidal in 1925 . . . The bottom of the world is in the grip of an ice age . . . In Little America, the south polar expedition site, the temperature of the crew's gymnasium was usually fifty degrees below zero . . . At sixty-five degrees below, one's breath could be heard freezing . . . Reindeer skin is the lightest and warmest material for clothing . . . Much credit is due previous explorers who, by their failure, taught Byrd what not to do."

Students Organize

Students of Pan-America have organized to form a Hispanic American Students' Congress. Delegates arrived for the first conference at Mexico from Spain, Cuba, Portugal, Nicaragua, Mexico, Costa Rica, Honduras, and Paraguay. Based much on the same order as the International Students' Congress the group is well under way with plans for the betterment of their country and is already planning for the next meeting which will be held in the Republic of Columbia.

No Book—No Study

Dear T. N. T.

Why doesn't the library provide for the students who are unable to wait until four o'clock for the overnight books? I am taking swimming at the Y. W. C. A. pool and must leave college at three o'clock. There have been times when I needed an overnight book, and there will be many more times when I will need books. It would be very convenient for P. E. 12 students if there were some provisions made for them.

FROSH ASKS PUBLICITY

Dear T. N. T.

I'm only a freshman and I'm well aware of the fact that it is not a very high position; but even freshmen have their opinions. Recently a meeting of the freshman class was held. Approximately one-fourth of the class knew about it. Surely there must be some way to get announcements to the entire group. Could a bulletin board be placed outside the Book Store?

—"Frosh"

Mail Box Tragedy

Dear T. N. T.

Last Thursday when I was waiting for my mail in the Book Store, a very impatient student, standing next to me, could wait no longer for her mail, so she proceeded to reach for it. She pulled three notes out of a box and then discovered that they did not belong to her. She tried to return them to their original box but in shoving them in she dropped one. Then she reached in her box, emptied it of its contents and went on her way. I am still wondering if the note that lay on the floor ever reached its rightful owner.

RAH! YOU'LL GET 'EM

Dear T. N. T.:

What has become of Rally-Day? —that tradition which was supposedly set last semester?

Yours for bigger and better rallies,

—Two Co-Eds.

... TERTIUM QUID ...

Today, Tertium would like to start you all off on our common theme song: "Let's get some pep songs for S. T. C.!"

How well I know that you've sung that song over and over again. I hear it every time you get together. You sing it at assemblies. You sing it at rallies—that is, whenever we're lucky enough to get them.

But, I ask you, what comes of all this dismal crooning? Did it ever net you good returns?

No, poor souls!!! For so far, you seem to have sung in vain. Why???

Because as yet, S. T. C. has absolutely NO pep songs!

Can you begin to sense the monstrosity of this thing? Can you realize that we, so full of healthy red corpuscles, possess not one inspiring song to cheer our alma mater?

I wonder if you never sense the gripping neausea of this loss? I wonder if you never find yourself in the humiliating position of proving to unbelievers that it is true you have practically NO means through which to show your college spirit?

Still, you might counter with the assertion that we've got a good collection of yells. Granted! But tell me—is it natural, is it right that we give nothing but yells for San Francisco State?

You and I both know that college cheers are great. But they can NEVER make up for the absence of songs!

NOW, WHY DO WE LACK PEP SONGS?!?

For the same reason that we lack many other things around here. Because YOU, each and every one of you members in the student body, always take a back seat and wait for somebody else to do your thinking for you.

Don't tell me that we have no pep songs simply because there are over 1300 of you who have nothing thicker than water running through your veins! O! you certainly are not heartless, immobile creatures! I say NO, because you are the best that youth has to offer. You have immeasurable initiative and talent!

So, why don't you put some of your gifts to work? Try to snap out of your careless, thoughtless state and wake up, you upperclassmen. Just figure out how it must appear to freshmen who walk into a college that has nothing but a hymn to show for itself. And what's more—THAT HYMN WAS NOT EVEN COMPOSED BY YOU! For while you sat back and waited, members of the faculty had to sharpen their own wits and write a song for you!

Can you beat that? With all your pep, with all your love for collegiate things, you could NOT sound the depths of true college spirit by writing your own songs! No sir! Here again, you let your professors show you up!

FRESHMEN, for your sakes, I hope that the seniors, the juniors, and the sophomores do a bit of scorching - up today. And while they burn, why don't you ACT by handing out a few songs yourselves!

You've got the PEP! So let's see a little of this enthusiasm worked off into a song: A song that the rest of us can sing, knowing that at last students here can think for themselves.

Besides, there is a rumor floating around that the Executive Board has just passed a motion to award, financially, those students who compose the three best songs for S. T. C.

This contest, so Tertium heard, is to start almost immediately. So now, folks, you've got something more tangible to try for than the mere pride and satisfaction of hearing a song you wrote yourself sung by the rest of us. And who knows but that your composition will grow as famous as that which was originally sung at Maine?

At this point, I would like to remind you of what one of our most forward-looking professors stated last term. His words were to this effect:

"In all deference to the 18th Amendment, I still believe that what our college needs is a good stein song."

And bye the bye, this instructor, Dr. Valentine, is none other than the one who wrote the words for our college hymn. And I blush to think, that while he was writing those words, he was secretly wondering when YOU, the students of S. T. C., would finaliy start in to write your own songs!

Futhermore, I am willing to guarantee that Dr. Valentine is not the only one who is wondering and WONDERING!

So come on, get going! Let's all try to get some real snappy pep songs ready for the FROSH BONFIRE RALLY, which is to be held very soon.

—TERTIUM.

P. S. How about getting that much requested PLATFORM for the Bonfire Rally? Come on, let's get some ACTION here—we need it!!!

S.T.C. INSTRUCTORS STARTLE STUDENTS

Taking his class quite by surprise, Dr. E. T. Arnesen, of the English Department, announced that the motion picture, "Her Man," was good, but very improbable. "How do I know?" he said. "That's another problem."

Mr. Fenton also startled his class by declaring Hollywood isn't so up-to-date, after all! He disclosed to his English 173 students that Dryden, who lived in the late seventeenth century, wrote "The Conquest of Granada" with the theme song, "I'm About to Die of Love"!

S. T. C. Moving Day

Students walking along the halls last Friday wondered if Dr. Cave were conducting a sight-seeing tour of S. T. C. Followed by about twelve students, he walked up and down stairs and along halls, peering into every class room in sight. Finally, with a great sigh of relief, he entered room 201. At last he had found an empty room for his Social Science 141 class!

But all was not yet well, for Everett O'Rourke was lost in the confusion!

Peace was finally restored however, when Mr. O'Rourke entered and explained that he was unable to keep up step with a modern fast moving class.

All Married Women Invited To Dames

The Dames Club has extended an invitation to all married women students of the college to become members of that organization. Meetings are held Thursday during the noon hour in the Activities Room. Prospective members are invited to attend meetings and to become acquainted with the club and its members. The purpose of the club is recreational and educational, speakers will be invited from time to time to lecture on topics of interest to club members.

Mrs. Fern Carlton is president, and prospective members are invited to communicate with her.

LACK OF CULTURE DEPLORED BY 'PROF

"It is astonishing the number of people lacking in cultural education," says Miss Evelyn Mayer, of the Art Department. "Everyone should keep up with the various exhibits and displays that are being held from time to time at the different Art Galleries."

Friendly 'Frosh' Makes False Step

A freshman walked hesitantly into the cafeteria carrying a tray. She looked from one gay group to another, and finally, seeing an attractive gray-haired woman at one table, sat down beside her thinking,

"Poor soul! She's one of the more mature students, and she's lonely. I'll just be friendly to her."

So the freshman smiled at the woman and began to chatter brightly of many things; classes and conflicts, teachers and college professors, and what was wrong with them.

Presently another woman came into the cafeteria and sat down opposite the gray-haired one. They immediately began a conversation. They compared notes as to how many students they had enrolled that morning in certain subjects they were teaching. They mentioned faculty conferences, office hours.

And all the while the freshman sank slowly down, down, and finally collapsed in a heap under the table.
